Arlington Park resident writes first children's book

Arlington Park Resident, Carol Butler has written her first children's book honoring Fort Wayne's first female Firefighter. It is entitled Genois Wilson, Firefighter: She Dared to be First.

It was illustrated by Teresa Yarbrough, the daughter of retired Fort Wayne Fire Department District Chief, Combat Division, Richard Ridley, Jr., the first African American firefighter, was published and released to coincide with the 2013

National Women's History Month celebration. Information about the book and discounted autographed copies of the children's book may be ordered at www.Carol-Butler.com.

The quotation, "A woman is like a tea bag: you cannot tell how strong she is until you put her in hot water," is attributed to two former First Ladies -- Eleanor Roosevelt and Nancy Reagan.

Children's Book

The former First Ladies' words come to life in the story of another first woman in Carol Butler's debut book It's an audacious woman's moving life story that shows how passion and determination can lead to incredible success in life.

Wilson is the first female firefighter of the city of Fort Wayne, Indiana. In the fire department, she exemplified leadership and a strong sense of willpower as she balanced her new life as both a role model and novice in a male-dominated professional field. She believed in herself knowing one day she could make it and she did. In 1975, Genois Wilson-Brabson became a true trailblazer by daring to be first. She not only was first but had an exemplary career becoming a District Chief before she retired. She inspired many other women who dared to follow her as firefighters. In 2012 the mayor of Fort Wayne named one of those women firefighters to be Chief of the Fort Wayne Fire Department.

In this book, young readers can follow the inspirational storyline as to how Wilson made it through the challenges in her life. She survived a fire in her childhood home while her older sister died from that same fire. By 1970 – at a time when women were not welcome to join men in jobs requiring strength, speed and, most especially, danger – Wilson decided she wanted to be a firefighter. She took the chance and succeeded, opening the door for all women, including African-American women, throughout the nation.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: She was motivated to write this book because of an incident that happened to her as a young woman when she unknowingly influenced an even younger woman simply by showing up at her school in her US Navy uniform.

Carol gave a speech and so inspired the young woman that she ended up serving in both the U.S. Army and the Air Force. Remembering the young woman's story and believing that you can still change the world, "one child at a time," Carol felt that Genois Wilson Brabson's story needed to be told.

Carol Butler is a community volunteer. She initiated Random Acts of Kindness Week in Fort Wayne, served as the chairperson of the International Women's Day planning committee, and is one of the founding members of an organization dedicated to supporting the university's Women's Studies program. She is also an active member of the Bahá'i Faith. Carol is married to Tom Butler and they live in Fort Wayne, Indiana. She and Tom love spending time with their grandchildren, traveling, and welcoming friends to their Arlington Park home.

Senior Ladies Monday Morning Coffee

If you are interested in getting together with other senior ladies living in the Arlington Community for coffee we meet every Monday morning at the clubhouse at 9:30 a.m. So plan on Mondays at the Arlington Park Clubhouse for coffee!!

See you there!

I wanted it to be RIGHT.

Why did I choose CopperRiver Cabinet Company? Because this is my kitchen. I wanted personal attention from a professional interior designer – and I didn't want the stress of a giant, noisy warehouse store. I wanted to know that my cabinets were well-made, by a reputable brand – and I wanted them installed, on-time, by experienced professionals. I chose CopperRiver Cabinet Company because this is my kitchen, and I wanted it to be – right.
